Alumni News

Armellino, Chester '67 (Tracy, CA) – is partially retired as an adjunct college math and physics instructor. My wife teaches 7th Grade Life Science, and I have a wonderful 12 year old granddaughter. I am so proud of both girls.

Excerpted from the Educational Charism Statement of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart:

Each and every student is known, valued, treasured, and taught in partnership with the family. Hospitality, availability, personal interest, and concern for others are hallmarks of this charism. We emphasize the formation of the whole person, traditional values, high expectations, self-discipline, fairness, professional competence and collaboration. The respect, kindness, and concern which flow from the charism are signs within the school of the compassion of Christ.

THE GREAT RELEASE

Above and Below: Students in Ms. Ann Smith's Environmental Science and Honors Biology Classes releasing trout at the Ward Pound Ridge Reservation in Westchester County. The students had raised the fish from eggs in the school's Biology Lab. The project was accomplished in collaboration with three government and environmental groups. 9th Grade student, Sinead Mogles, said "Releasing the trout was a very fun and interesting experience. I got to see how our actions as a class positively affected the environment. I had a great time, and seeing the trout happily swimming made me feel proud."

Campus Ministry Leadership Training Retreat

A group of underclassmen met at the former seminary in Huntington, NY partly in preparation for the orientation process for the incoming Class of 2020. The experience was sponsored by the McClancy Campus Ministry Program.
